

Mrs. Rutie Zuckerman Bio

Mrs. Rutie Zuckerman was born into a family of educators. She attributes her passion for teaching to her parents, Rabbi Michael and Bonnie Myers; a mother and father who encouraged questions, embraced challenges, and whose thirst for knowledge and Torah study are ongoing.

Rutie is a product of Chicago's day schools. As a child, she attended Joan Dachs Bais Yaakov and then Hannah Sacks Bais Yaakov. Rutie began her teaching career at Arie Crown Hebrew Day School in 2006 by teaching second grade. In 2007, she moved to Silver Springs, MD and taught at Charles E. Smith Jewish Day School, one of the largest Jewish day schools in the country. After moving back to Chicago in 2008, Rutie returned to Arie Crown where she has been teaching first grade boys General Studies for the past six years.

Rutie utilizes a multisensory approach to enable her students with different learning styles to achieve and feel confident. Her lessons are well-planned, creative, and reflect the most current educational innovations. Rutie is admired not just for her educational expertise but also for her ability to nurture the unique mind and personality of every student and to develop a personal relationship with each one. She accomplishes this by looking for greatness in each one of her students. Rutie's classroom is a place where every child feels loved, appreciated and safe.

Rutie and her husband, Dovid Zuckerman, have two children who currently attend Arie Crown Hebrew Day School.
